

James Kelly is a Corporate Services Partner at Rawlinson & Hunter. As a qualified accountant he joined the firm in 1986 as a Corporate Manager becoming a Partner in 1990.

James specialises in providing financial and taxation advice and outsourcing services to clients, from owner managed businesses to large multi-nationals. His areas of expertise include technology, art market and motorsport. He has extensive experience in providing hands on advice to start-ups, spin-outs and growing SME companies. He has seen the pitfalls that these companies can fall into and is keen to share his experience with budding entrepreneurs.

James is on an advisory panel that works with the UK Government enhancing and promoting the R&D tax credit scheme. He also advises clients on cross border activities, complex corporate tax and VAT issues. James is a Fellow of the ICAEW and a member of the IT Faculty and Finance and Management Faculty.
